STREET STREWN WITH TACKS IN PAWTUCKET

Providence, March 17.—Strike sympathizers in Pawtucket adopted a new weapon today when the street leading to the Jake Dunnell plant of the United States Finishing Company in that city was strewn with tacks.

Workers from East Providence and other places have been conveyed to this plant daily in trucks and touring cars.

When the cars struck the tack entanglements today, the tire casualties were heavy. The tacks had been sowed on the street during the

A National Guardsman on strike duty at the Natick mill last night was struck with a stone thrown by an unknown assailant. It was reported at military headquarters at Pawtuxet Valley this morning.

Troops were called out and a search made of the vicinity, but without result.

R. I. Workers Willing to Arbitrate Wages

By the Associated Press.
Pawtucket, R. I., March 17.

Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, said in a statement today that at no time during the present textile controversy had representatives of the workers opposed arbitration of wages.

"From several sources it has come to my attention," said Mr. McMahon "that the representatives of the striking textile workers have refused to arbitrate the question of wages. These unfounded rumors are for the purpose of alienating public opinion."

C. I. Woolen Mills Cut Time Schedule

Providence, March 17.—Two Rhode Island woolen mills went on a four-day-a-week schedule today. The mills of the Kent Manufacturing Company in Cranville and the Kent-Worrest Manufacturing Company in Washington in the Pawtucket section of the city.

Three weeks ago the Wamsick Company in this city inaugurated a four-day-a-week schedule. The move announced a cut of another 10 percent in the cost of woolen goods.

There is every indication that, notwithstanding the cut in the cost of goods, the price of woolen goods will not fall. The president of the American Woolen Company, which has 10 mills in the United States, said that the mills in this city, that there is no possibility of a cut in the price of woolen goods, woolen manufacturers in this city are not in a position to cut the number of working days.

MILK DEALER FINED FOR USING OTHERS' BOTTLES
 Worcester, March 17.—William C. Galtier of Auburn, who has appeared in District Court several times as the complainant against other milk dealers for using milk bottles which did not belong to them, was arraigned before Judge Uley on a like charge upon complaint of Milk Inspector George Melikian and was fined $10.
 Melikian told the court the defendant conducts a bottle exchange and a milk business. He testified he visited the defendant's place and found defendant using bottles of nine other dealers.

SAVES LYNN WOMAN FROM DEATH BY FLAMES
 Through the prompt action and heroism of Miss Mildred Clark, a housemaid, Mrs. Pauline Kilvinski, of No. 41 Sagamore street, Lynn, was saved from death by flames when a pan of gasoline on a kitchen shelf exploded and set fire to her dress. Miss Clark wrapped a rug around the imperiled woman and smothered the flames. She then called a physician. Mrs. Kilvinski was burned about the face and hands. The blazing gasoline started in a closet where it caused small damage.

BONUS MEETING TO BE HELD ON COMMON

Boston American to Arrange Affair Aided by Veterans' Societies; Plan Concert

Another big drive in behalf of the soldiers' bonus will be conducted on Boston Common next Tuesday afternoon. An open-air mass meeting has been arranged at the Parkman Bandstand by the Boston American. The veterans of Foreign Wars will cooperate with this newspaper in making the mass meeting a success. Hundreds of persons were invited to get into Faneuil Hall at the mass meeting conducted there under the auspices of this newspaper in connection with the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. For that reason it has been decided to hold next Tuesday's meeting on the Common, where there will be room for all who wish to attend.

MACDONALD TO PRESIDE
 John L. MacDonald, commander of the American Legion, Massachusetts Department Veterans of Foreign Wars, has consented to preside at the meeting. Several prominent men will address the gathering. Some of them will advocate the sales tax as the method they favor for paying the bonus.

BONUS DECISION PUTS RETURN OF HARDING

Republican Leaders to Call at White House for a Conference

By International News Service.
 Washington, March 17.—The soldiers' bonus problem has again today with President Harding.

After twenty-four hours of doubt and indecision and battling with Congress, the President today decided to do no more until they conferred with the President. They will go to the White House—Mondell, Frazier, Lathrop, and Cullen.

They hope he will accept the bonus bill as it stands, but they are not sure. If he rejects it there seems no way but postponement.

The leaders are now in a conference of House Republicans that has been dominated by bonus advocates. Representative Turner of Iowa, chairman of the House Finance Committee, has the lead.

They can order the call a conference, he commented today, "but I cannot see how it can be done. It will be a conference with President Harding as soon as he gets to it. It may be there will be no need for further conference. The proposed conference was promoted by Representative Lathrop of California, an advocate of a sales tax, to pay a cash soldier bonus.

BONUS DEMAND AT EVACUATION DAY BANQUET

Bankruptcy Pleas an Insult to American Intelligence, Says Senator Stanley

Every speaker at the big banquet in the South Boston Municipal Building, commemorating the 144th anniversary of the evacuation of Boston by the British, declared it to be the imperative duty of Congress to enact a generous bonus bill for the benefit of Americans who served in the World War.

Senator A. Wesley Stanley of Kentucky said that it was an insult to the intelligence of the American people to say that bonus payments would bankrupt the nation. He criticized "Jack" Dempsey for working in a shipyard at $20 a day, while the "boys" were going over to Flanders for $1 a day.

Congressman Peter P. Tamm said so many in Congress are contentedly and honestly vote against the bonus, because when Congress passed that law drafting men to the service of the United States they made a solemn promise that each one would be cared for.

Chairs of approval followed this reference to the bonus by Mayor Curley.

"This country made a pledge to every man who fought for the glory of the country that she would care for him and the man who opposes that pledge to the service man is not only an enemy to the soldiers, but of America."

He said the money of the world could not have deflected the United States from its path, but there was something else, the blood that poured through the veins of a great people, whose men were possessed of that courage and determination that won the war.

"We owe it to the American soldier, married and single, to fulfill our pledge given in an hour of trial and joy, the bonus. We cannot afford to pay this bonus, although we, with each great outstanding debt, are in a better position than ever before."

HUGE COMBINE OF THEATRES PLANNED

Leading Producers Are Reported Interested in $100,000,000 Merger

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, March 17.—A number of leading theatres and theatrical productions of the United States will be merged, according to the Chicago Herald and Examiner, which today printed what it termed plans for a $100,000,000 combine.

According to the newspaper, A. L. Cresson and J. J. and J. J. Shubert, who controlled a number of theatres and theatrical productions here last week, are negotiating with Charles Dillingham, Al. H. Woods, Florenz Ziegler, Sam Harris, George M. Cohan, the Shuberts and others to join them.

The proposed merger, it was said, specifically aims at elimination of needless building of new theatres, overlapping of existing ones and exhibiting in the same city of similar types of attractions simultaneously. The theatres would be booked under central management, to avoid such conflicts and resultant heavy losses. Similar cities would be allowed only one high class theatre, it was said.

FARMER - LABOR CONGRESS BLOC IS LIKELY

Washington Seen New Political Trend Among Mississippi Valley Voters

By WILLIAM HARD, Correspondent, Copyright 1922.

Washington, March 17.—Political news afloat in Washington today from different parts of the Mississippi Valley seems to indicate that in that great region there will this year be a very considerable amount of non-partisan voting in the Republican and Democratic primaries to secure the nomination of "farmer candidates" and of "labor candidates" on the regular Republican and Democratic tickets.

The efforts to this end are better organized than they ever were before and they give fair promise of producing in the next Congress not only a "farm bloc" but also a "labor bloc," combined into a "farmer-labor bloc" operating under the old party flags but pursuing their own special purposes.

The perfect embodiment of this idea in Colonel Smith Hays, running for the Republican nomination in Iowa for the democratic seat recently vacated by Mr. Kenyon and now occupied by Senator Hawley, is a farmer who has a high popularity in the farming community. At the same time he enjoys the cordial endorsement of the State Federation of Labor and of the railway unions in Iowa. He is said also to be strong among the soldiers in view of his service in the army.

He trained large numbers of young Iowans in preparation for service overseas. His platform is not only to protect the special interests of the farmer, the wage worker and the ex-serviceman, but also to support the railroad, the steel bloc, the oil bloc, the tobacco bloc, the beef bloc, the money bloc, the wool bloc and the United States Chamber of Commerce bloc.

"On the other hand, I promise to fight the fight of the farmer bloc, the labor bloc, the soldier bloc, the business world which co-operates with those blocs for its prosperity." The Iowa business is thriving also in other parts of the west. In Oklahoma the president of the State Federation of Labor and the president of the Farmers' Union, have both of them been touring the state for a local Oklahoma farm-labor bloc.

"The Farmers' Union construction League."

They recently held a state convention with more than 700 delegates representing present and future farmers of Oklahoma City, a farmer-convention on the same model is to be held in Indiana and in Wyoming.

Two years ago Brookhart came quite close to defeating Canning. This year, with much more discontent among farmers, wage-workers and ex-servicemen, he hopes to win the nomination against any and all comers who may fail to recognize the discontent.

Brookhart's own statement of his political program is the most candid defense of the "bloc" idea that has been put forward in this country. After announcing he is for the bloc, Brookhart says:

"The development of our country has divided our people into blocs with divergent interests. I here announce the blocs I intend to support and the blocs that I do not intend to support."

The different factions of labor are closer together politically than ever before and the result is farmers are battling more than they ever did before, and the American Legion, which used to be pretty strong in the "labor question," is now engaged in denouncing the wealthy upholders of the bloc.

Putting these things together it seems probable that large numbers of the present members of the House of Representatives and the Senate will soon yearn to rush home to find what they have to face in this summer's primaries.

CHAMBER SEEKS JOBS FOR ALL VETERANS

Those Who Have Dependents to Be Helped First, Monday "Employment Day"

The Boston Chamber of Commerce, cooperating with trade bodies throughout the country, announced today that plans were under way for providing employment for Greater Boston boys from World War veterans.

A committee has been organized in conjunction with General Charles H. Koe, head of the State branch of the Legion.

This committee will send circulars to every member of the Chamber asking that employment be given at least to those veterans who have dependents. When these are cared for the men without dependents will be attended to as rapidly as possible.

Next Monday has been designated throughout the country by the American Legion as "Employment Day."

Cooperation of Chambers of Commerce of all cities in the country has been asked.

Officials of the Boston chamber said today that, while they have received no communication from the United States chamber, they had started their drive independently.

Vaudeville Artist is Typical Chicago Beauty

RUTH URBAN

A typical Chicago beauty is how Ruth Urban is best described. This attractive young actress was announced to appear in "Hot Pepper," but left the cast just before reaching Boston. She finally arrived in the fall of the "Tivoli" with "Marry Me," at Keith's this week.

Miss Urban started her stage career in "The Doctor" in 1914. She is a very clever dancer, sings very skillfully and takes Boston reviews. She says she loves Chicago, but the wind off the lake in March makes too many wrinkles.

MAN HURT WHEN AUTO RUNS WILD IN DOCK SQUARE

Reverse Driver Loses Control of Car and It Rams Through Store Windows

One man was injured, two plate glass windows were smashed, an automobile was damaged and considerable excitement furnished in Dock Square today when an automobile, driven by Myron Condon of Boston, got beyond his control.

According to the police, Condon was in the car when Condon's car lost control and crashed into a wagon driven by John Brown of Broadway, South Boston.

On the spot with Brown was William Wallace, a hotelier. Wallace was thrown to the street and injured. The car then crashed through the windows of a United Cigar Store at No. 15 Dock square.

After hitting the wagon, Condon's car continued the sidewalk, and ended its flight by crashing through the windows of a United Cigar Store at No. 15 Dock square.

The year wheels of the machine caught on the curb, otherwise, the car would have gone right into the store.

Neither Condon nor his wife was injured.

Says With All These Lawsuits Going On a Man Will Soon Have to Know a Girl Two or Three Days Before He Kisses Her

Every now and then we read about some girl who sues a man for fifty thousand dollars because he stole a kiss. It's not right to call it burglary because she rights there when he took it.

She said him because he kissed her twice, but he claims he was only giving the first one back.

If a kiss is worth fifty thousand dollars, he wonder on many men spent ten dollars and got married.

Times are certainly getting terrible. Pretty soon a man will have to know a girl two or three days before he kisses her.

No wonder so many men never kiss their wives. They don't want to get dragged into court.

Some of the men who get sued for fifty thousand dollars are married. Just think, they could have spent ten cents a day and gone home and gotten all the kisses they wanted for nothing.

Stolen kisses are the sweetest, but they're also the most expensive.

Fifty thousand is a big sum of money for one kiss. A lot of girls would be glad to give you one for twenty-five thousand.

HABEAS CORPUS FIGHT TO AID YOUNG DODGE

Millionaire Auto Speeder in Workhouse; Calls Doctor to Treat Him

Detroit, March 17.—A fight to obtain release of John David Dodge, young Detroit millionaire, from the Detroit House of Corrections, where he was sent yesterday for a first day term by Judge Charles L. Ford, left on a speeding charge, was set on by his counsel today.

A writ of habeas corpus was served on the warden of the workhouse, a favorable letter from Judge James C. Anderson, who spent his first week of imprisonment on a car in the jail car.

Dodge spent his first week of imprisonment on a car in the jail car. Dodge, having summoned a physician, who declared he was suffering from a fever, induced his nervousness and excitement. He was declared to be sufficiently recovered today to be assigned to a job among other prisoners.

These jobs were held and assigned to a job among other prisoners. These jobs were held and assigned to a job among other prisoners.

The writ of habeas corpus, presenting an appeal from Judge Ford's sentence, was set on by his counsel today.

Capes Dominate Misses' Modes

Misses' Cape Suits

One especially smart model, illustrated above, is in tan and red novelty checked wool—seamless cape and new trimmed sports skirt. Others 25.00 and 35.00—39.50

Tweeds Plaids Tint Cord Camel's Hair Crepe Silk Cordine Velvet Marrills Urona Spongeon Crepe de Chine

THE CAPE is the garment of romance, of mystery and adventure. It lends itself to the beauty of the flowing line, to the beauty of startling contrasts, to the beauty of decoration.

This season Capes are paramount. They are seen everywhere at Palm Beach in all materials, even the shiest. They are worn for all occasions. Capes dominate the style situation. There are Capes and Cape-like Coats, Cape Suits and Cape Dresses—Capes for the debutante and the matron, for the school girl and for the latest actress.

Others are illustrated and briefly described on this page. There are scores of others and we believe we have now ready in our misses' section:

The Best Showing of Capes in Boston

For 65.00—A Spanish Cape, illustrated at the left in the group, of crepe de chine lined with bright-blue silk, deeply trimmed.
For 35.00—A Sports Cape of Heather tulle lined (illustrated in the middle) with a rose colored peau de cygne lining.
For 75.00—A Cape-like Coat of velveteen, with sleeves richly beaded and hand embroidered.

Other Capes and Cape Coats 25.00 to 225.00

Misses' Cape Dresses

The sketch at the left shows one of the many new Cape Dresses—in a new wool-cotton fabric, Tint-o-sheen. In rose, blue or heather combined with tan, but most striking, as illustrated, in white with black. Notice the novelty of the glazing and the wool caracul collar. 35.00

Other Cape Dresses in Tweed, Spongeon, combined with Silk Crepe, at 45.00.

Misses' Jersey Cape Dresses, with plaited skirt and full cape gathered on shoulder yoke—in navy, tan, brown, henna and copen 18.50

Girls' New Capes

Of checked velvet, as illustrated above, in tan and blue; luxury throw scarf—lined with red Jap silk. 10 to 15 years 18.50
Other Girls' Capes 10.00 to 37.50

New Dressy Capes New Motor Capes New Rug Capes New Fringed Capes Fur Collar Capes New Cape Coats

BRIDE PAID $3,500 HONEYMOON COSTS

NOT SO GRAVE! John A. Wadley, now 69 years old, has just ended 80 years of service as chief engraver of the Navy Department, Washington. As well as the hydrographic office he has seen it grow from an office employing 71 to an organization of 180. He studied engraving at the University of California.

ALICE IN MONKEYLAND! Little Alice Hastings Bradley, 6, of Chicago, is shown here as the youngest gorilla hunter of a party that encircled the Belgian Congo. She is being carried by a native hunter through the Kivu country.

ALGUN POLLO! Senorita Emma Guine, hard, whose delicate beauty won her place even as a Queen of the North Texas carnival in the city of Aguascalientes. She was judged the comeliest girl in the district.

WHAT AN OIL CAN He Turned Out To Be! Just the same, who would change places with Wesley May, daredevil, while he changes planes with a can of gasoline strapped about his body? One of the planes ran short of gas taken at Long Beach, Cal.

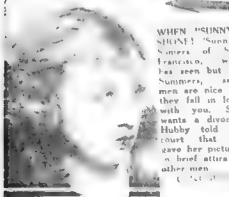

ECLIPSE OF Honey moon! Beautiful Anita Gordon, 20, who was arrested with her husband by the Chicago police while on her honeymoon as members of two bandit gangs, from whom the police are said to have recovered $10,000 loot.

WHAT CIRCUS WAS SHE WITH? Salome was really an acrobat, declares the latest interpreter of that famous sex queen, and just to prove it Adeline Stanley, Chicago beauty, gave an acrobatic performance of the famous John the Baptist Dance.

HIGH AND MIGHTY! Giant aerial tower of the broadcasting station of the General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and said to be the latest in the world. There comes a week, when it must be judged the tallest in the world.

WHEN "SINNY" SHOWN! "Sinny" Sumner of San Francisco, who has been but 18 Summers, says men are nice till they fall in love with you. She wants a divorce. Hubby told the court that she gave her pictures a brief attire to other men.

COLOR AND BEAUTY! The art of the Balkans has been appropriated in this ultra-modern frock lectured of dark blue serge and cream flannel. Colored embroidery is on flannel.

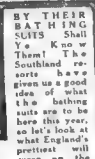

SEYMOUR J. COX, Houston, Texas, oil promoter, who is in Federal custody on the charge of conspiracy in a million dollar fraud on sales of worthless oil stock.

WRAP IT UP! C. H. Clarke and his collapsible bicycle, which may be folded in two and carried as easily as any hand baggage. The machine is built like an ordinary bicycle, except for the smaller wheels.

MME. ELIZABETH GIRENKO, nobleswoman of Russia, who was found working as manicure in a Chicago shop. She says an American millionaire brought her here on promise to wed.

MRS. JEAN D. APPERSON of San Francisco, who was granted a divorce after she testified she had paid $3,500 for honeymoon expenses.

EXPENSIVE BUSINESS! "Sex detectors" are branded by Bureau of Chemistry, Department of Agriculture, as dishonest frauds. L. F. Kehler of the Bureau shows holding alleged "tells" over egg.

BANKING ON RADIO! Market reports and bank news are now being sent out daily by means of the radio phone, and many bankers and brokers have become enthusiastic "fans." F. H. Rawson, above, president of the Union Trust Company of Chicago keeps in touch with the late news and his subsidiary business interests with the radio phone.

Reasons for the Bonus

No. 1: The Republican Party Promised It
Copyright, 1922, Wm. Hearst

The following is from an article written by W. R. Hearst giving six reasons why the bonus should be paid to the soldiers promptly. This is Mr. Hearst's first reason:

FIRST, the Republican party, which controls the present Congress, declared in its national platform in favor of the soldier bonus, and went before the country with that as one of its main issues. If the elected Congress fails to carry out its former platform promise, the Senate and Representatives will be in the contemptible position of having professed a patriotic sentiment which they did not feel in order to secure votes, and then having repudiated their pledges upon which they had been elected.

W. R. HEARST.

The question of the BONUS is up to the Republican party now. A little later, when congressional elections come around, the question of the Republican PARTY will be up to the soldiers.

For a party to break its word is always foolish and unwise. For the Republican party to break its word to the ex-service men, well organized, intelligent and well informed, would be political suicide. The Republicans ought to know it.

If they cannot give the soldiers the bonus to which they are entitled from a sense of gratitude, decency, and because their word is pledged, they will do well to pay the bonus as good politics and avoid the consequences of treachery at the next election.

Lodge's Inconsistency

Must This Great Country of Ours Be Forever Guided by the Fears of a Constitutional Coward?

Senator Lodge is supporting the Four Party Power Pact written by the British and under the terms of which the Republican party votes its pledge to keep us out of entangling alliances, and proposes to give us a treaty a good deal worse than the League of Nations and Article X. of that league.

Senator Lodge explains his inconsistency in opposing the one and supporting the other by the statement that he is afraid that unless the United States becomes the ally of England and Japan that England and Japan will attack us.

Now consider the puerility and inconsistency of Senator Lodge's attitude.

Five years ago this very month of March he was shouting for us with Germany and screaming that unless we hastened to the help of England and Japan we would eventually be attacked by the German-Austrian alliance or forced to submit to their treaty demands in order to avoid war.

This danger was to be forever prevented by assisting England and her allies—among them Japan—to destroy the Central Empires and so make democracies and republics and small peoples, as well as great peoples, free from the threats of imperialism and autocracies and militarism.

That is what Senator Lodge shouted from his place in the Senate.

The country followed his advice. We went to war. We threw millions of men and billions of dollars to the allies. We saved them.

And now this same Lodge, from his same place in the Senate, tells us that we must either submit and sign on the dotted line or else these allied imperialisms will do to us what he formerly predicted Germany would do, attack and harry us.

Is Senator Lodge always afraid and must this great country of ours be forever guided by the fears of a constitutional coward?

What does Massachusetts think of its representative in the Senate?

What does the old Bay State think of such an argument for American ears?

What do other Americans think of the man and his argument?

And what do you American Senators and you American people think of a treaty made by the help of such a man, enforced in secret meetings by the representatives of this threatening mongrel alliance and accepted by the delegates who most unworshipfully represented the might and majesty of our America behind those doors?

No wonder those rooms were locked and sealed.

No wonder no record was kept of what was said or done in these secret meetings.

No wonder that the shame of our nation was plotted in secrecy and every trace of the secret plotting and the secret surrender destroyed.

Good people, rise up and support your Senators who are fighting against this surrender, this mean and cowardly surrender, to the insolent threats of this mongrel alliance, which dares, even in the capital of the Republic, to proclaim through the mouth of one of its tools and dupes that we must either submit to its dictations, destroy our naval power, abandon our sea bases and become a partner in its depredations on the rights and liberties of the weak or else prepare to fight its armies and navies.

What is the only answer to that insolence?

What is the only answer that an American Senate can make for our people?

Tell them to—well, tell them what Whittlesby told the German who demanded the surrender of the Lost Battalion.

They will remember what Whittlesby said and they also remember what Whittlesby did.

Room for Improvement

Daniel L. Hanson, speaking before the Pilgrim Publicity Association, accused Boston of being the most backward city in America in regard to convenience stations and drinking fountains.

Whether or not this city is the most backward is a question. It is true, however, that in the matter of convenience stations we are very lax, a fact which has been too often noticed by visitors to our otherwise efficient community.

"Let us be decent to our people," suggests Mr. Hanson. This is excellent advice which should be heeded by our City Council.

A Great St. Patrick's Day

Fighting and Persistence PAY. If St. Patrick Could Come Back.
Copyright, 1922, Wm. Hearst

On the hill of Tara, where he faced, defied and converted the pagan Irish King, stands a monument to the great fighting St. Patrick. He died fifteen hundred years ago, the Irish still honor him and celebrate his day. There was never a more cheerful St. Patrick's Day than THIS, which comes after centuries of waiting, after SEVEN HUNDRED YEARS OF STEADY FIGHTING.

A young IRISHMAN is at the head of the government in Ireland. Dublin castle is in the hands of IRISHMEN, its affairs, the taxes, the power to rule themselves is at last in the hands of IRISH men, and women.

It is to be hoped that St. Patrick, where he now dwells, knows the news and shares in the satisfaction of Irishmen. For although he is said to have been born in Scotland, kidnapped away to France, and returned to Ireland only as a boy in his teens, St. Patrick was Irish through and through.

He preached Christianity in all parts of Europe. But his real work was done in Ireland FOR Ireland. His dominating characteristic was fighting courage, and that has been an inspiration to Irishmen ever since his day. He was afraid of nothing, not afraid of the Irish King that faced him, a savage creature, dressed in the hide of a bull with the horns and tail remaining. He was not afraid of the pagan gods, or the fairies or elves or gnomes or witches, in which the land believed, before he preached Christianity.

Whether he looked out at the great ocean, from a point on the West Coast "beyond which no man is," or turned East to carry his message of Christianity into rough parts of Europe, he was always the same, A FIGHTER.

In this day of satisfaction with the Government of Ireland at last IRISH, it will interest you to read a little about St. Patrick who represents the Irish.

St. Patrick is the typical Irishman, and whether he was born on the Green Isle, or in Scotland, or on the shore of Normandy, across the channel, makes no difference.

He did not fear the pagan Irish kings, or the witches, or any danger.

He traveled far, his teachings traveled farther.

He drove the snakes out of Ireland, so the old legend says. He drove the snakes of suspicion and black terror out of Irish kings and their subjects, and that was of more importance.

His writings and teachings and his own words spread knowledge and a better idea all over Europe.

The Irish may well be proud of St. Patrick, celebrate his birthday, name their churches in his honor.

His quality was that of the pioneer, the quality that has built up this country and every other country.

He was a pioneer in ideas, teaching the truth throughout the lands, and a pioneer in his travels, going straight on preaching, condemning and regulating until the wide ocean stopped him.

And if he had any idea that there was anything on the other side of that wide ocean he might have tried ahead of Columbus and got here first.

This newspaper congratulates the United States upon the fact that so many with St. Patrick's Celtic blood in their veins have come to this country, bringing his name and honor with them.

It is a great blood, that blood of the Irish. It was working wonders long before there were any Irish kings or any Irish cities.

We look upon Ireland as the home of the Irish Celt, but as a matter of fact the whole of Europe, wherever there was fighting, and the whole of the north, has been their home.

Their blood has been kept pure on that little Irish island. To cross the English channel to England and then cross again to Ireland was more than the Irish adventurer cared for. And so of the Celts, wandering everywhere, crossing every sea and every mountain, those that settled in Ireland retained the purity of their blood, their strength, their moral and physical fighting character, as they did not elsewhere.

But those Celts of Ireland are the same as the Celts that lived in the Balkan Mountains, the Celts that gave the blue eyes to the Greeks, the Celts that declined to pay any compensation to Alexander the Great, the Celts that were afraid of nothing, "except that the sky would fall on them."

Some American citizens take a narrow view of St. Patrick and the meaning of his birthday. This day it not merely a religious day, glorifying one of the greatest figures in the oldest and greatest church in the world.

The day of St. Patrick, to the Irishman, means much, regardless of religious faith.

St. Patrick stands for courage, for new thought, for energy, for fearlessness in the face of oppression and danger.

If the spirit of St. Patrick has animated, guided and helped thousands of religious teachers, missionaries, self-sacrificing men and women, that same spirit has also upheld and made heroes of thousands of fighting men, from Scotland to the Argentine, and from Constantinople across Europe and across the Atlantic and across our continent to San Francisco.

Whoever honors St. Patrick honors a noble, courageous, fighting man in the best sense of the word.

And he DESERVES honor.

Boston Should Expand

City Is Geographically Too Small—Merger of Street Railways Into Metropolitan District a Good Suggestion

Chairman James F. Jackson of the board of public trustees of our street railway system, urges the Legislature to create a metropolitan street railway system, as we understand it, by the merger of all the street railways in the metropolitan district.

We quite approve of the suggestion if it does not impair public operation. Indeed, any suggestion which will create a metropolitan district is a good one. Boston, geographically, is too small. There ought to be a metropolitan Boston as there is a metropolitan New York, metropolitan Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago. All the cities are taking in their immediate interlards and making themselves big cities. The advantages of it are obvious, commercially, industrially and socially. There is no reason why there should be any political disadvantage, if the plan is carefully worked out.

St. Patrick's Day, 1922, Finds Her Free

How to Woo Sleep

LONDON, March 17.—What are the best methods of inducing sleep?

Dr. Milford Curdell's advice to the Irish may well be of interest to those who are troubled with sleeplessness. Exhaustive inquiries have been made by the doctor, who is always piling up his bedside.

The best authority states that Mr. Lloyd George is usually an excellent sleeper, but when he is unable to sleep he reads history, biography or translations, which are always piled up by his bedside.

The following are typical replies of famous people to the question, "How do you secure sleep?"

G. K. Chesterton—Few things will keep me awake when it is time for me to go to sleep. If I lose sleep one night I manage to make it up the next—but I never count sleep.

Miss Phillis Tennyson—The actress I cannot sleep I read a book that has been recommended to me by a friend, and that usually is effective.

Mrs. Margaret Wynne Nevillson, J. P.—I suffer from sleeplessness and when I cannot sleep I recite poetry and poems over and over again.

barrier—I have only to read a page of Bernard Shaw and I fall into a deep sleep, and I find a refreshing sleep that lasts for some hours, and a whole act of one of Mr. Shaw's recent plays provides me with a hearty night's rest.

Stars and Stripes

There are several ways of doing people good, but there is one way that beats running a bucket shop.

See by the New York papers a girl who has just died. It is under her chaparrone's nose. It would have been better to have kissed her right under her own.

There are several forms for and against the old-fashioned club, but the fact remains that nowadays a man who wears an old-fashioned club gets higher than Congressmen.

Congress says: "The bonus is all right so long as you don't beg about it."

Men think so, fall in love when they really fall for it.

NOWHERE

Where will I find a lady fair? Who does not mind about her hair?

Japan is building fortifications in Brazil. For the protection of the Monroe doctrine, no doubt.

MAKE DESERT PAY WITH SILK MOTHS AND BUTTERFLIES

KHARTUM, Sudan, Feb. 20. (By Mail).—Few people probably realize how the Sudan has progressed since the days when Kitchener finally crushed the power of the Mahdi and made Khartum a centre for a progressive civilization west of the Red Sea. In those days it seemed foolish to suppose that a sheer desert could ever be made profitable, but although it still holds away over many hundreds of miles, the fact remains that it is being pushed back.

The primitive irrigation methods of the Nile have been improved, and the desert, the scientist, bends his energies to the task of finding out the kinds of animals or plants best suited to the conditions.

An interesting experiment of this kind is now being carried out at the research centre in Gordon College. Along the banks of the Nile, and often some way into the desert, the ricinus or castor oil plant grows freely in a wild state. Although possessing the well-known and valuable properties in some degree, these plants do not yield sufficient oil to make their utilization remunerative in competition with the East Indian product.

It happens, however, that a species of silk moth, the Attacus ricini, feeds upon this plant. This large, handsome moth produces a very strong silk—not so fine, it is true, as that of the Bombyx mori, from which the best silk is produced, but still extremely useful in these days when silk is used for even more important purposes than the manufacture of fine raiment.

Large numbers of eggs of this moth have been imported and the larvae reared in the laboratories. Over a thousand moths have emerged from the pupae during a three-day period, and the scene in the room at night was singular in the extreme, for it was filled with a mass of fluttering wings and perfect moths will be turned out on the wild plants, in the hope that they may settle down and breed naturally. This may not be a success, for there are some natural enemies which is too strong for the species, but it is a notable fact that the development of this district during the past ten years has been so great that no fewer than nine species of butterfly, hitherto only known in the more equatorial reaches of the river, have acclimatized themselves here of their own accord.

Let the Bells of Peace for Ireland in Joyous Anthem Ring

Song by Edward Machugh
O Erin, thy tears now shall cease,
A dear land of green valleys and bowers
Greet the day of thy sweet dream of peace;
O grant that the harp's soulful measures,
The lark's song at dawn ringing clear
Bring home to the heart that still treasures
His loved note of merriment so dear.

CHORUS
Let the bells of peace for Ireland in joyous anthem ring.
Ring out, ye bells of peace, ring out, your gladness message
Tis the bells ringing peace loud and clear;
May thy burden soon be lightened, may our hearts with gladness spring,
Let the bells of peace for Ireland in joyous anthem ring.

Through the mist see the glow of the dawning,
The daybreak swift spreads far near—
What's the sound on the wings of the morning?
Tis the bells ringing peace loud and clear;
Blest be God for the birthday of Erin,
Our Ireland oppressed nevermore,
No sorrow in song with a tear in,
But joyful, triumphant o'er more.

For Ireland
Editor Boston American:
As a constant reader of your very valuable paper, allow me to congratulate you on your timely advice to all true friends of Ireland in the editorial, "Judge for Yourself." May God grant that your sound advice is heeded in time. Let us think of the brave Irishmen who made the supreme sacrifice that Ireland might live. Can we honor our noble dead by causing a division now, when our country is going through one of her darkest periods of her whole history? The oppressor is ready to poison now as never before, and vile propaganda is already being spread broadcast.

Yes, all true lovers of Ireland must well take editorial and hang it in a very conspicuous place. I thank you for the splendid Americanism as expounded in your editorial. DANIEL J. KEANE.

LIFE'S MISFITS
Many a man who might have been a good butler has failed in life owing to his unwillingness to wear side whiskers.

Somebody's Birthday

Congrat. 1922 to its publisher, the B. A. today is your birthday you should have a prosperous and interesting life, for you are born under beneficent signs which forecast a character of splendid integrity and industry.

You are accurate in your judgment and observing of all that is said and done in your profession. You are constantly studying the shifting scenes of the times and carefully scrutinizing all that comes into your gaze; and you classify people and events in their proper relations.

You should certainly choose finance for your life work, and there is no position in a bank that you could not adequately fill.

The women of this day, however, are much more versatile than the men. In fact there is nothing in which they are not at least interested, and there are very few occupations open to women and men that they are not equally capable of undertaking.

This is an extremely favorable day for you. Don't hesitate to secure any class that may come to you and force the issue in all your hopes.

Children born today will be energetic and successful because of their happy nature.

Famous persons born today: William Pittman, statesman; Roger H. Taney, Chief Justice of the United States; Walter O. Gresham, Secretary of State; Clara Morris, actress.
